THE QUAY CASE POSTPONED.
The reasons assigned by Senator Quay's attorneys for a writ of certiorari to remove the conspiracy case from the Court of Quarter Sessions of Philadelphia to the Supreme Court are so surprising in their nature that the people of the State in general will look upon them with considerable astonishment. They will be found in another column.

It is apparent that Senator Quay desires the case postponed, although he repeatedly stated his purpose to meet his accusers at the earliest possible moment. His change of purpose, especially for reasons which are questionable, is looked upon as an indication that he no longer wishes so speedy a trial.

The following are illustrative of the comments of the papers of the State:

From the Philadelphia Record.
On petition of defendants for a writ of certiorari to remove the trial of the Quay conspiracy case from the Philadelphia Court of Quarter Sessions, Justices Green and Williams of the Supreme Court, have granted a rule for a hearing to determine the matter on January 7, 1912, and a stay of proceedings until further order of the Court.

So far from being guilty of the conspiracy charged against them by the indictments filed by the grand jury, the defendants allege that they are victims of a conspiracy on the part of James G. Gordon and others, aided and abetted by President Judge Fletcher and the Philadelphia newspapers, (with one exception) to prevent the election of a United States Senator from Pennsylvania and the election of Matthew S. Quay to succeed him.

Probably the Supreme Court will have little difficulty in refusing the writ asked for, which is a gratuitous encroachment on the Court's power and the people of Philadelphia, but in the meantime Senator Quay will have taken a most costly trip to the trial until after District Attorney Graham shall have gone out of office, and a probable delay until after the Legislature shall have elected a United States Senator.

Records do not wish to be deemed guilty of prejudice; but if Senator Quay and his fellow-defendants be indicted, they have taken a most costly trip to the trial until after District Attorney Graham shall have gone out of office, and a probable delay until after the Legislature shall have elected a United States Senator.

THE BATTLEFIELD PARK.
At the thirty-second national convention of the Grand Army of the Republic, resolutions were adopted highly eulogistic of the work of the Gettysburg battlefield commissioners, and especially commendation was expressed as the marking of the site of the Army of Northern Virginia as rapidly as the land there could be obtained by the United States. It was declared that in view of the limited appropriations, the progress of the work, its stability and excellent condition, the admiration of every soldier and the hope was expressed that Congress would be more liberal in granting funds for the completion of the work according to the plan.

The recent war, which, compared with the Civil War, will stand in our history as a minor duty to a noble winter, and the demands upon it should not be permitted to retard the completion of the work begun at Gettysburg. — Philadelphia Inquirer.

The first of the appropriation bills covering deficiencies for war expenses, reported to the House last Thursday, carries for the War Department and military establishments, $80,711,339; for the naval establishment, $3,508,933; a total of $84,220,272. This amount, however, is a re-appropriation of funds heretofore allowed, but not available after the close of the present year. The unexpended balance of these funds is estimated at $16,105, which the War Department balances is $61,216,201.

WAR REVENUE. — The amendments are already beginning to crop up in the Congressional record, most of those which have thus far appeared being in the nature of propositions to lessen the burden of the tax on the tobacco and alcohol and permanent increase of Federal expenditures. The amendments are designed to lessen the war taxes must be classed as pure bonanzas, prepared for those coming to the aid of the Government. FORMER PRESIDENT CLEVELAND. — His Wednesday dictated the following on the new policy of the United States: "Without going as far as I have, I wish to say that I am ardently opposed to every feature of this annexation and expansion policy. The public ought to know pretty well what my conviction is from the Hawaiian question during my administration. I have not changed my mind and remain opposed to all this annexation from Hawaii to the Philippines."

CONGRESSMAN BLOTT. — Edward D. Ziegler has come out strongly in favor in the Legislature to prevent the re-election of Senator Quay. He also favors the selection of Chauncey F. Black as the Democratic nominee for United States Senator. Mr. Ziegler declares that the duty of the senatorial is in favor of friendly cooperation with non-Republicans as they are willing to stay out of the machine caucus and are willing to organize the House against the Quay ring, on a independent and honest basis.

COLONEL WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN. — The Third Nebraska Regiment, has either forwarded his resignation to Washington, or is about to do so, says a dispatch from Savannah, Ga. It is said that the regiment has been ordered to the Philippines.

SENATOR C. J. MAGEE. — A short session of the State Legislature has been called for the purpose of electing a successor to Senator Quay. The Legislature is expected to meet on Thursday and Friday.

THE SUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT. — Senator Quay to secure from the Supreme Court a postponement of his trial on the People's Bank conspiracy charges has given rise to the utterance of his opponents, who claim that he has secured the order for a retrial until after January 7, 1912, when the Legislature convenes.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY. — The Republican party in the Legislature is expected to be the controlling force in the organization of the Legislature and the choice of Senator. The Democrats recognize concurrence in the will of the majority as a fundamental obligation. But they owe a duty to their constituents in the result of a vote to name a candidate for the office of Senator.

RECEIVES GOOD ADVICE FROM FELLOW WORKMEN.
The Whole Story Told by His Wife — It may Help You.
When my little boy was six years old he had an attack of the measles, and after recovering he was restless at night, had no appetite, and was cross and fretful. Later on, large blotches and sores broke out on his face and limbs. We were told they would heal in a few days; but these few days grew into months. One day my husband, who is a well-known railroad man, was advised by some of his fellow workmen to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. We concluded to do so, and after he had taken the first bottle he noticed some improvement. We kept on giving him this medicine until he had taken three bottles, when he was completely cured, and he has been well ever since. — Mrs. E. L. MILLER, Bennett, Pa.

RECEIVES GOOD ADVICE FROM FELLOW WORKMEN.
The Whole Story Told by His Wife — It may Help You.
When my little boy was six years old he had an attack of the measles, and after recovering he was restless at night, had no appetite, and was cross and fretful. Later on, large blotches and sores broke out on his face and limbs. We were told they would heal in a few days; but these few days grew into months. One day my husband, who is a well-known railroad man

THE FARM IN WINTER.

A WRITER MAKES SOME SUGGESTIONS WHICH ARE PRACTICABLE—FROM A BUSINESS POINT OF VIEW.

Some people will tell us that the farmer who works hard all summer should take a vacation in the winter, and do but little more than care for his live stock. In my own farming experience, says a writer in the Practical Farmer, I could never make things come around right without doing considerable work in the winter. I do not work as many hours in the day as in summer, but business requires me to do considerable work every day, either in or out of doors. There is always work that needs doing in the barn or other buildings. On our farm we have a shop with suitable tools, where we often spend the winter days repairing or making farm implements. I have some very useful tools which I have made in the winter, such as plow irons, stone boxes, barrows, sleighs, wagon boxes, hay-racks and wheelbarrows. There are always much that one can do in the winter that will save valuable time in the spring. The farmer should not fail to use the pleasant weather in the winter to provide the year's supply of fuel. I suppose that most of the farmers have a wood box that furnishes them with their fuel, and I wish to show the economy of using it well seasoned wood that is cut under cover. I know farmers who draw both one load of wood at a time, then cut it as used for the stove, leaving it out of doors to get wet or covered with snow. It is very trying to a woman's patience to burn such wood, besides it does not pay for much more is used, as the stove must be kept full all the time to make it burn, while one or two sticks of dry wood will often make all the fire that is needed, and would burn at once. I seldom fail to keep a year's supply of fuel on hand, and we always have seasoned wood under cover. I have been able to get my wood with, I think, the least expenditure of labor in the following way: I go to the woods before the snow comes and cut the wood ready to load on the sleigh. The logs that are piled up for 7 inches in diameter are drawn to a convenient place to load them, and placed on skids. These small logs are cut and thrown in piles near a road. I use the first sleighing to draw the wood to some place near the wood-house. We use horse-power and a drag or sled to haul the wood to the wood-house. We often load our sleds with sawing the wood in stove lengths, and make a short job of it, as we can saw 10 to 20 cords in a day. During the winter we split the wood ready for the stove, but allow it to partly season out of doors before putting it in the wood-house. I have learned not to put green wood in the wood-house unless the house is an open one; for it will mold and spoil for burning. My wood-house is so built that there is a door that opens into the kitchen near the range, which makes the wood very convenient to get at. I get the year's wood supply all piled in the wood-house before it is time to begin farming in the spring, then give the subject no more attention until the next winter. My farm work is not interrupted or delayed by cutting wood in the summer. We often load our sleds with sawing or parlor stoves, and have found it paid me to draw my supply in the winter on sleighing, and store it in the cellar. I think it is more economical to burn coal in our sitting room or parlor stoves, and it is more economical to burn coal that has been stored for some time, so that it is dry. I have a neighbor who says it pays him to buy coal and season it as well as wood. I always draw out the manure in winter and spread it so as to save time in the spring. Besides the work out of doors, or the work in the barn or shop, the farmer should take time to balance his accounts for the year past, take an inventory of his stock, and make his plans for the next year. The successful farmer cannot spend his time at the country stores in idleness. Like other business men he must during his working hours be constantly employed, but I believe in making short days in the winter; then spend the evenings at home in reading the agricultural journals, and other good literature.
